Numb. 409

Munday, August 9. 1703

From the Harlem Courant, dated August 11.

Brixen, July 26.

THIS Morning early came the News, that Baron Hayndel has taken the Passes of Scharnitz and Leirasch. Two Wag-gons were taken from the Bavarians near Zirl, in which were found 60000 Guldens. P. S. A Courier has brought Advice to the Generals Guttenstein and Man, that the Bavarians have been defeated near Inspruck, and that Rothemburg and Kuffstein are recover'd out of the Hands of the Elector, for which we Sing Te Deum to day.

Vienna, August 1. Two days ago, Captain Geldorf arriv'd here, being sent Express by General Guttenstein, who brings an Account that on the 24th past the Peasants of Tyrol took the Castle of Rothemburg and put several hundred Bavarians to the Sword, and from thence march'd with all their Force towards Inspruck. That the Generals Solari and Guttenstein, after they had held a Council of War at Brixen, march'd with some Regular Troops and Militia, and attack'd the Enemy posted in or near the Brenner Berg with so much Vigour, that they were oblig'd to fly and leave behind them all their Tents and Baggage; Whereupon the Elector of Bavaria march'd with all the Troops he had left, to retire by the Pass of Scharnitz into Bavaria, but Baron Hayndel had a little before taken that Pass from the Bavarians left to defend it, and garrison'd it with 600 Soldiers and as many Peasants: So that the Elector was oblig'd to fight his way through, which cost him a great number of Men, for the Dispute lasted 6 Hours. General Guttenstein is at Inspruck.

From the Imperial Army encamp'd at Haunsheim, August 4. On the first came Advice that the Elector of Bavaria was marching back out of Tyrol with 5000 Men, leaving the Passes of Kuffstein and Rothemburg garrison'd with 600 Men, the rest of the 10000 Men with which he enter'd into that Country being cut off. The Elector having retreated part of his Way, a Body of Regular Forces and Peasants attack'd him on all sides, and kill'd abundance of his Men, among them the Count of Verita and the young Count of Arco. On the 3d came Advice from the Enemy, that they could not retreat out of Tyrol, the Imperial Troops and the Peasants being posses'd of all the Passes.

Ratisbon, August 6. We receive good News daily from Tyrol, the loss of the Bavarians being both confirm'd and augmented; they tell us the Elector himself is wounded with 2 Musquet-shots, and is so hem'd in on all sides with his Regiment of Lifeguards, that it will be difficult for him to get off safe.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated August 11.

Salzburg, July 29. 'Tis sufficiently confirm'd that the Bavarians have been worsted and lost a great many Men in Tyrol; and several Couriers have pass'd through this Place to Vienna with the News. Rothemburg is garrison'd with 800, and the Pass of Staub with 50, Imperialists. 'Tis said the Bavarians had 3000 Men kill'd in the Fight on the Brenner Berg, and that the Elector of Bavaria was oblig'd to move into the Stubigerdale with 1500 Men. A Captain sent to Vienna by General Guttenstein, who pass'd through this Place, assur'd us, that 'tis certain the Imperialists have recover'd several Places in Tyrol from the Bavarians.

Ratisbon, August 6. The Elector of Bavaria is in good Health at Midwalt. The Fortifications of the Pass of Scharnitz are demolish'd by the Bavarians, who have Garrisons in Ehrenberg, Reita and Kuffstein. Whether the Brenner Berg is at present in the hands of the Imperialists or of the Bavarians is not certainly known.

Rivole, July 22. Last Night a great Detachment of the French came to the Mountains, 'tis thought they will march tomorrow towards the narrow Passage that leads to Tyrol, from whence it is distant but 8 Miles: but, 4 Miles from hence in the same narrow Way are posted 3000 Imperialists, Regular Troops, and 4000 Peasants, who will dispute that Passage with the French. 'Tis said the Duke of Vendome with another part of his Army will endeavour to make himself Master of Trent.

Vienna, August 1. We have receiv'd Advice from Italy, that the Duke of Vendome being arriv'd with 12000 Men near Rivoli, instead of attacking the Troops which General Vaubonne had posted in the ordinary Passages of the Mountain Baldo, pass'd that Mountain by unfrequented Ways, and continued his March towards Tyrol: And that thereupon General Solari with 5 Battallions, some Recruits, and some of the Militia of the 5 Vicarages of Castelbarco, is march'd towards Roveredo, to joyn General Vaubonne, in order to make head against the French.

By the Neutral Countries we have the following Advices from Brussels, printed.

From the Camp of the Duke of Burgundy at Wilsted, July 26. The Letters from Bavaria confirm that the Elector is Master of all Tyrol; that General Lutzelbourg, after having forc'd several Passages guarded by Regular Troops and Peasants, has taken in a very little time the Fortresses of Ehrenberg and Reuta, situate on the Lech on the Frontier of Swabia, tho' the latter was esteem'd very strong; and that the Garrisons of those Places are conducted to Bregentz on the Lake of Constance. There are Advicts likewise which say, that the Detachment which his Electoral Highness order'd to march to meet that from the Army of the Duke of Vendome, have possess'd themselves of the Passage of the Brenner, which is the most important Pass between Inspruck and Tyrol.

Paris, August 3. Yesterday arriv'd at Court a Courier sent by the Prince of Vaudemont, with the News, that the Garrison of Bersello, consisting of 1500 Men, of which 400 are Sick, surrendred on Discretion on the 27th of last Month; And there were found in the Place 132 Pieces of Bhar Cannon, some Mortars, a great quantity of A rafs and other Ammunitions in Proportion. A Corps, urice from the Duke of Vendome has brought Advice, that the Duke having march'd with the Detachment order'd to joyn the Elector of Bavaria on the Right and Left of the Lake of Garda, was arriv'd without meeting any opposition at Torbole, a Town at the end of the Lake, belonging to the Emperor; that he attack'd and took it, with no more loss than of 50 Men kill'd and wounded; and that he found in it a great quantity of Ammunitions, Corn and Oats, and 50 Barks that were to have been employ'd to transport Provisions on the Lake. The Troops were within 4 Leagues of Trent, towards which they continued their March. Tomorrow the Marshal de Vauban will go Post from hence for the Army of the Duke of Burgundy.

From the Army of the Allies commanded by the Duke of Marlborough, encamp'd at Opheeren, August 13. The Artillery and Ammunition which is to be employ'd in the Siege of Huy being all imbark'd at Maestricht, was to day convoy'd up the River to Liege by 3 Battallions of the Garrison of Maestricht. We continued encamp'd at Borchloen while this Train was shipping at Maestricht, and this Morning early broke up from thence and march'd hither. This Evening the Count de Noyelles is to march to Liege with a Detachment of 6 Battallions and 10 Squadrons to joyn the Battallions from Maestricht, which will be likewise reinforc'd with one Battallion of the Garrison of Liege, and with this Body of Troops the Count will March on the other side of the Maes, convoy the Ships up to Huy, and take post before it on that side the River: As soon as a Bridge is laid over the River he will be joyn'd by 5 more of our Battallions. The Head Quarters of the French Army is at Heylesem, from whence the Marshal de Villeroy went yesterday to visit Huy, in which are 3 Battallions commanded by Monsieur de Millon, who was Governour of the Chartreuse of Liege when it was taken last Year. Tomorrow we shall advance to Tourine, and on the 15th invest Huy on this side.

London, August 9. On Thursday last the Captains Allen, Crow, Grevil, Bertie, and Cavendish, were tried by a Court Martial for not fighting the 3 French Men of War off Scarborough; the two first were sentenc'd to lose 3 Months pay, the 3 last were honourably acquitted.

On Friday Mr. Hill went down the River to embark in the Henrietta Yatch for Holland, from thence to go to the Court of Savoy.

At Richmond-Wells on Tuesday next being the 12th of August.
